

RICH MAN FREED OF THEFT CHARGE MADE BY WOMAN

Court Dismisses Mrs. Weinreb's Complaint That Leipzig Took Her $100.

The charge of Mrs. Pearl Weinreb of No. 42 West One Hundred and Twelfth Street, wife of Harry Weinreb, a tailor, at No. 215 Broadway, that Abraham Leipzig, retired manufacturer and owner of several apartment buildings, who has an office at No. 12 Nassau street, recently took $100 from her, was dismissed yesterday.

Various policemen, the complaint clerk of the Harlem Police Court, Assistant District Attorney Follett, and Justice Marlow heard the thrilling story of the alleged robbery. All refused to be convinced.

Mrs. Weinreb said she came to know Leipzig through living at an apartment in a building he owned in West One Hundred and Eleventh street last March. Between 1:30 and 2:30 on the afternoon of May 14, when she was on West One Hundred and Eighteenth street, near St. Nicholas avenue, she said, one was called at her door by a stranger, who said he was about to get a street car.

"He told him there were plenty of cars running up and down the street," said Miss Weinreb. "He had hardly stepped away before Mr. Leipzig rushed up and asked me if that man had tried to sell me some jewelry."

"Before I could answer he caught me by the hand, dragged me into a doorway on One Hundred and Eighteenth street and asked if I had any money. I told him I had a hundred dollars and took it out of the bottom of my wallet and showed it to him. He snatched my money and shoved a cheap watch and pair of glasses into my hand."

"I'll be back in five minutes and give you $200 if I can," he said.

Mrs. Weinreb said she waited an hour, but Leipzig didn't return. Last night Leipzig went to Weinreb's shop to warn Weinreb his wife must stop talking about him or he'd have the law on her. While he talked with the husband, Mrs. Weinreb sent a boy out for a policeman, and Leipzig was arrested.

Leipzig, his attorney, Samuel J. Simon, and twelve witnesses were in court today, but the Court wouldn't entertain Mrs. Weinreb's complaint.

HERE'S WHAT KICKER GOT AT EIGHT-CENT BREAKFAST.

"Breakfast," Four Pounds; Bread, Two Pounds; Prunes, Five Pounds; and Coffee, Six Bowls.

The champion eater has been discovered on Bill's Island. Hudgens & Cooper have the contract for feeding the aliens awaiting deportation or detention on the island, and serve meals at eight cents per head.

Eight cents doesn't sound like much, but it's worth caring for the sake of what it will buy on immigrants' island. The first "grouch" to complain of not getting enough to eat is John Nowak of Poland, who has been there three days. Word of his complaint reached Superintendent Gene Rodgers last night, and he gave orders that for breakfast-to-day the man from Poland should be permitted to go as far as he liked.

Nowak of Poland beamed when this message was conveyed to him. From what he ate, his complaint would appear to be well grounded. Here's what he had for eight cents:

Ten portions of pork and beans, four pounds of food; two one-pound loaves of bread; six bowls of coffee and five pounds of prunes.

"Paddy the Pig" wouldn't be in it with him," said Mr. Hudgens, "and Paddy had the reputation of eating more than Jumbo."

Flowers Asked for Sick.

The rooms of the New York Flower Mission, No. 101 East Twenty-first street, are open every Monday and Thursday for the reception of flowers and fruit for sick poor in hospitals and tenement houses. An increased supply of fresh flowers from neighboring towns is greatly desired. They are brought free of charge by the florist companies within a radius of 10 miles. Small sums of money for current expenses and delicacies for tenement-house sick are much needed. Volunteer helpers at the rooms will be warmly welcomed.

NOTE FROM STUDENT WHO VANISHED ADDS TO AN OLD MYSTERY

O'Brien, Who Disappeared From Columbia in 1910, Living Under Cover.

John O'Brien, a senior at Columbia University, and a star athlete, walked out of his dormitory one evening in May, 1910, about a week before the day he was to be graduated with honors, and never came back. From that day to this not one of his college friends, so far as known, has ever seen him.

Day before yesterday, however, H. H. Osterhout of No. 46 Cedar street, president of the Columbia class of 1910, received a letter addressed in a delicate feminine hand, inclosing one from O'Brien.

Within the second envelope was a cordially worded note, enclosing a money order for $50, which, the writer explained, he wished to contribute to the expense of the annual class reunion. There was not a single word about O'Brien himself, his present occupation and position, nor anything to close up the mystery, nor that for three years had he written to his classmates.

One feature, however, was noticed, at once. The letter was addressed to Osterhout on No. 46 Cedar street. That has been his business address only a little more than a week, and many of his regular correspondents do not yet know it. This fact and the New York postmark on the letter apparently show that O'Brien is living in this city, and has kept fairly clear track of old former friends, while carefully avoiding the possibility of their learning anything of him.
